

Family Space Resource Consultant Program

The Resource Consultant Program recognizes and considers that every child has unique needs and embraces Ontario's Pedagogy for the Early Years – How Does Learning Happen.

“Child development provides a body of knowledge that can help us to recognize and articulate children’s observed behaviours and discuss their emerging skills with families and others”- HDLH

If you have concerns around your child’s development and want to learn more about the Resource Consultant Program please call: 613-966-9427

How Does Learning Happen? is organized around the four foundations of belonging, well-being, engagement, and expression. These critical conditions are important for children to learn, grow and flourish.

We invite you to reflect on the following statements from the resource, to think with us about these foundations:

- “Every child deserves to have someone’s eyes light up when they enter the room.” (Dr. Jean Clinton)
- When educators establish positive, authentic, and caring relationships with families and provide a safe, non-judgemental environment for shared learning, everyone benefits.
- Engagement happens in play that evolves from the child’s natural curiosity – active play that allows children to explore with their bodies, minds and senses, stimulating them to ask questions, test theories, solve problems, engage in creative thinking, and make meaning of the world around them.
- Asking for and considering children’s ideas can help to strengthen their sense of autonomy, their competence, and their critical thinking skills.

How Does Learning Happen? Ontario’s Pedagogy for the Early Years is a resource about learning through relationships for those who work with young children and their families.
